

Community

Page 23

January 1 2015
NJTN

MINI-CHEFS – The Mini-Chefs program at Beth Ephraim Maplewood Jewish Center introduces children to holiday foods from around the world. In advance of Hanukka, they made Greek salad – in connection with the story of the Maccabees' defeat of the Syrian-Greeks – and decorated menorah plaques for the holiday.

HOLIDAY PREP – The students of Temple B'nai Abraham's Early School got ready for Hanukka by crafting menoras, playing the dreidel game, singing songs, hearing the story of the Maccabees, and making latkes. Practicing "lighting" the menorah are, from left, Levi Schwartz, Zoey Sperling, Jake Solomon, and Jake Esarey.

LEARNED HAND AWARD – Metro NJ Region honoree at the firm of McElroy LLP, with its National J... 8 at the Hilton at Short... Rosen, Allison Sachs Kl... director of developmen... Kamen, AJC Metro NJ p... Scrivo and Stephen Gre...

DEPOT MENORA – Parents and children build a menorah Dec. 14 at the Home Depot in Garwood. The store supplied the materials for the Union County Torah Center-sponsored project. All the children received a Home Depot apron to bring home

INTERFAITH HOSPITALITY – Temple Shalom of West Essex eighth-graders Julien Maarek of Cedar Grove and Jack Zickerman of Verona, joined other community members in donating their time to Interfaith Hospitality Network of Essex County families in West Orange on Dec. 7.

YOUNG PHILANTHROPIST – ers of The Partnership for Teen Tzedakah Program... founding president and... director of Greater MetroWe... director of the Jewish F... center. They took part... ish philanthropists at th... Dec. 7 prior to making... sion of the federation's...

ART AND EDUCATION – "Outsider" artist Jennifer Levine, whose studio is in Montclair, spoke about the intersection

SPOON HANUKKIA – As part of their Holocaust and Human Behavior class, students in the Temple B'nai Abraham Jew...

GIFT-GIVING – Present... Rotman, executive dir... MetroWest, left, are rep... of Legal Administrator...